Argos Quick Guide to Steam Irons

Every iron has a range of features, we have produced this guide to help you choose an iron that suits you

Steam rating

Higher steam output ensures better results when dealing with creases, reduces effort and ironing time.

Soleplate rating

- 2 = Aluminium: The basic soleplate used on irons.
- 3 = Non-stick: Treated with a non-stick coating which helps prevent damage to fabrics.
- 4 = Stainless steel: Improved heat distribution and smooth gliding across fabrics.
- 5 = Ceramic: Superior glideability across fabrics making ironing easier and quicker. Non-stick, tough and durable

Vertical steam is ideal for removing creases on hanging garments or hanging fabrics such as curtains.

|---|---|
| WATTAGE 2400w | Higher wattage reduces heat-up times and delivers faster, more powerful performance. |
| STEAM 15g | A higher steam output ensures better results when dealing with creases, reducing effort and ironing time. |
| STEAM SHOT 100g | Injects a powerful burst of steam into the material, ideal for stubborn creases and when ironing heavy materials such as denim. |
| WATER TANK 250ml | A higher capacity water tank will need re-filling less often. |
| ANTI-SCALE YES | Helps prevent limescale build-up, maintaining performance for longer and extends the life of your iron. |
| ANTI-DRIP YES | Helps prevent dripping and staining when ironing at low temperatures, ideal for delicate materials. |
| CORD LENGTH 3m | A longer cord will allow you to iron further from the power socket. |
| WEIGHT 1kg | Information provided to help you choose dependent on your preference. |

Auto shut-off safety feature automatically turns off the iron if left unattended for a period of time.

Steam generators from only £49.99

Argos Quick Guide to Steam generators

Steam generators feature a separate boiler: This generates a larger amount of steam than an iron, making it faster and easier to remove creases.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Steam rating | Higher steam output ensures better results when dealing with creases, reduces effort and ironing time. | |
| Soleplate rating | 2 = Aluminium: The basic soleplate used on irons. | |
| | 3 = Non-stick: Treated with a non-stick coating which helps prevent damage to fabrics. | |
| | 4 = Stainless steel: Improved heat distribution and smooth gliding across fabrics. | |
| | 5 = Ceramic: Superior glideability across fabrics making ironing easier and quicker. Non-stick, tough and durable. | |
| STEAM SHOT | 100g | Injects a powerful burst of steam into the material, ideal for stubborn creases and when ironing heavy materials, such as denim. |
| HEAT-UP TIME | 2min | Time taken to heat the generator at start-up prior to use. |
| CONTINUOUS FILL | YES | No need to switch off and re-heat when refilling with water, simply refill the tank as you go. Products without this feature require cooling, refilling and re-heating time. |
| ANTI-SCALE | YES | Helps prevent limescale build-up within the iron, maintains performance for longer and extends the life of your iron. |
| VERTICAL STEAM | 1kg | Ideal for removing creases on hanging garments or hanging fabrics such as curtains. |
| CAPACITY | 200ml | A higher capacity water tank will need refilling less often. |
| AUTO OFF | YES | A safety feature which will automatically turn off the iron if left unattended or knocked over. |

TELEVISION

Television is changing, with digital broadcasts and High Definition technology offering the best quality and even more choice than ever. This means we've now got over 130 TVs for you to choose from, and we can help you pick the right one for you.

We check our prices every week, and many of our TVs are available in store for you to take home straight away. We also offer 3-year warranties on many leading brands.

See page 832 for our quick guide to choosing your TV.

How to choose a TV

What size do I need?

Today's flatscreen TVs offer plenty of advantages over traditional TVs. Their slimline design means they'll fit into the smallest spaces – whether it's your kitchen, living room or bedroom. And remember, flatscreen TVs are easily wall-mounted if you need to save space. You could even treat your home to a stylish TV stand that will house a DVD recorder, set top box and more.

Flatscreens come in a wider range of sizes than traditional TVs. Smaller screens (15 to 23 inches) are perfect for the kitchen or bedroom, while larger screens (26 to 32 inches) will look great in your living room. For the ultimate viewing experience choose a screen with a huge 37 to 50 inch screen, so you can watch all your movies in true cinema style.

To make the most of films and TV programmes shot in a widescreen format, make sure you choose a TV with a widescreen display (found on most TVs of 19 inches and above).

What type of TV?

Flatscreen TVs come in two types – LCD and plasma. Both give crystal clear pictures and brilliant sound quality, and last even longer than conventional TVs.

There are a couple of main differences between LCD and plasma screens. LCD displays are available in a variety of screen sizes, from 15-inches to massive 52-inch displays. They're light and slim, so they're ideal for wall mounting, too – perfect if you want to put the largest possible screen in a small space. They also perform very well in brightly lit rooms, making them a great all-round choice.

Plasma screens come in larger sizes (37 to 50 inches +), so they're often a fantastic cinema like experience in your main living room. They handle fast moving action very well, giving sharp, smooth images, with bright colours and very deep black tones. While plasma screens are usually a little heavier and deeper than LCD versions, they can still be wall mounted.

Get set for digital broadcasts

Starting this year, TV will begin to switch to digital. By 2012, the whole country will only be able to receive digital signals, and analogue TVs and video recorders will no longer receive broadcasts.

digital ☑ It's important to check whether your TV is digital. If it can only receive the five basic channels, it probably isn't, so you might want to start thinking about switching over. The easiest way to do this is to buy an integrated TV. At Argos, we have a wide range of digital televisions in all shapes and sizes, with all the technology you'll need – just look out for the digital tick.

Freeview With a digital TV you'll receive all the usual channels plus dozens more Freeview stations – with no monthly subscription charges. And don't worry if the TV you want doesn't have a digital tuner – you can easily add a set top box (see page 866).

There's more to digital TV than extra channels. The pictures are crystal clear and free from interference, plus you can also get dozens of digital radio stations. There's also an interactive red button that puts a world of digital information at your fingertips, like weather forecasts, up-to-the-minute news and even-the ability to join in your favourite quiz shows or vote on a reality TV programme.

To avoid the rush, make sure you start preparing for digital now. As well as needing a new TV or set top box, some homes will need a new aerial to receive digital TVs signals (see page 892). And remember, if you want to record Freeview programmes you'll need a digital recorder, too (see our guide to digital recording on page 868).

Argos Guide

HIGH DEFINITION

High Definition is the future of TV viewing, and it's available now. High Definition (HD) signals contain four times more detail than normal ones, giving your pictures unbelievable sharpness, vibrant colours and amazing surround sound.

At Argos, we've got a full range of equipment for you to choose from so you can discover HD for yourself – plus it's all at brilliant prices.

See page 838 for our Quick Guide to choosing your HD TV.

High definition explained

Best picture quality

High Definition (HD) is the latest in TV technology, with ultra-sharp images, super-fine detail and vibrant colours on screen.

1080HD ready

To explore the world of HD, just look for a TV with the HD Ready or 1080 HD Ready logo.
These mean they have all the features and connections needed to show HD signals. A standard picture is made up of 625 lines. With HD ready TVs this increases to 720 or more. 1080HD has 1080 lines for even higher resolution offering the sharpest possible images.

High Definition is available now – you can already receive HD TV signals from some satellite and cable broadcasters, watch HD movies on an advanced Blu-ray or HDDVD player, and even play HD games using a Sony PlayStation 3 or Xbox 360 console. Look out for Televisions with Image Enhancement Technology or 100Hz, these improve sharpness, colour and reduce motion blur on fast moving action.

Make the most of your HDTV

With a flatscreen you can make sure you get the most out of your High Definition TV. These TVs work in a completely different way to traditional TVs. The images are made up of millions of tiny pixels, and the more pixels it has, the sharper the images will look. But don't worry, you can still use all your DVD, video and set top box equipment with a flatscreen. In fact, the sophisticated image enhancement technology found in many sets will mean you'll probably get even better quality pictures.

Next to the flatscreens in this catalogue you'll often see two numbers that describe their brightness and contrast. Brightness tells you how powerful the screen is, while contrast is a measure of deep colours and shadows. Generally, the higher each number, the better the screen – although you only really need very high brightness when your flatscreen is used in a very bright room.

Connecting it all up

HDMI™ HIGH DEFINITION MULTIMEDIA INTERFACE

Don't forget that you'll need to connect your new TV to your existing video equipment. Many traditional TVs use SCART cables. These are all-in-one cables that carry both sound and video. They make it easy to link TVs to video and DVD players, set top boxes and more.

HD signals need HD connections, so if you're buying an HD Ready TV, make sure you have enough HDMI cables (or adaptors) to link your equipment. HDMI connections carry both pictures and sound, giving you the highest quality connection, even for normal TV signals.

Most HD Ready flatscreen TVs come with at least one HDMI socket – but the more it has, the better. That's because all technology, from DVD players to camcorders, is gradually moving to HDMI. You'll find HDMI cables, adaptors and more useful equipment on page 899.

You may want to consider upgrading your equipment such as DVD recorders, to one with an HDMI output. These will usually 'upscale' non HD content to make it as close to high definition as possible.

High Definition TV, movies and games usually come in full surround sound. To make the most of it, try creating a cinema set up in your home. You can get stunning surround sound from just two speakers (plus a subwoofer for deep bass sounds), or you can even treat yourself to a full home cinema (see page 878).

RESOLUTION 1366x768
Resolution shows how many tiny digital pixels make up the image. The higher the resolution, the more fine detail it can show.

CONTRAST 600:1
Contrast affects how well it can depict dark colours and highlights. A high contrast gives rich, solid black tones and bright, clear whites.

Always • Remote control
Occasional • Auto setup

BRIGHTNESS 500cd/m²
Brightness measures the maximum illumination produced by the screen. You'll appreciate a brighter screen in day light.

SCART 2
SCART is how many SCART inputs it has, for connection to older VHS and DVD players.

HDMI 2
HDMI is how many HDMI sockets it has. HDMI is the best connector for High Definition video.

COMPONENT Yes
Component is whether there is a component video input. Component video works with High Definition signals, but doesn't carry any sound information.

COMPOSITE Yes
Composite is a basic connection for linking to old VHS recorders.

DV IN Yes
DV In lets you connect extra equipment like digital camcorders.

GOING DIGITAL

You might have heard of digital switchover. It means that by 2012, the whole country will have switched to digital TV, giving everyone more channels, crystal-clear reception and lots of extra digital features.

But there's no need to wait to upgrade – in fact, by switching to digital now, you'll be able to watch and record your favourite programmes with all the advantages of digital technology.

Digital switchover

What is it?

Starting this year, the TV signal will begin to switch to digital. By 2012, the whole country will only be able to receive digital signals, and analogue TVs and video recorders will no longer receive broadcasts. It's important to check whether your TV is digital. If it can only receive the five basic channels, it probably isn't, so you might want to start thinking about switching over.

By switching to digital, you'll get even more choice. That's because with digital signals, broadcasters can fit many more channels onto the same airwaves – so you'll be able to get up to 70 free channels, including over 20 digital radio stations covering everything from entertainment to sports, documentaries to kids' programmes.

To find out about coverage in your area, take a look at www.freeview.co.uk.

It's easy to choose programmes using simple on-screen displays, and with Freeview there's no subscription.

With Digital TV you'll have one-touch access to subtitles, TV listings and interactive red button features. There are also lots of useful extras including news headlines, sports results, weather forecasts, games and behind-the scenes information on your favourite shows.

What do I need to do?

get set for digital

Getting ready for the switchover is easy. You can receive digital TV signals simply by buying a digital set top box and connecting it to your existing TV. You'll need one set top box for each TV in your house. Alternatively, you could pick a new TV from our large range of digital televisions with built-in technology (see page 838). Digital TV also looks fantastic on today's slimline flatscreen TVs.

digital

If your TV can receive Freeview signals, you might want to buy a digital TV recorder, as you will also be able to record Freeview programmes. They're easy to use too.

Look out for the digital tick logo on our products. Any TV, set top box or recorder with this logo will work perfectly when the switchover happens – letting you sit back and enjoy the great benefits of digital TV. And there's no need to wait – you can start enjoying all the choice and extras of digital TV today. Make sure you don't leave it too late, as some homes will need a new aerial to receive digital TV signals (see page 892).

How do I get digital?

The good news is that going digital isn't expensive. The only essential thing you'll need to get Freeview channels is a digital set top box – and these start from under £20. The boxes plug straight into your existing aerial and TV, and automatically find all the digital TV and radio channels available – so no more hunting for the good reception!

Set top boxes include an electronic programme guide (EPG) that tells you what's on for the week ahead. This is constantly updated and includes plot summaries and extra information – it's like having a listings magazine on your TV.

SETANTA SPORTS

Some boxes are Setanta Sports compatible. This means that for a monthly charge you can watch 46 exclusive premiership games per year, 60 Scottish league matches and much more.

To make recording easier you can choose a DVD Recorder with digital built in, or even a digital TV recorder. With these recording and watching TV is easy – you can choose the programme you want to record by name, plus some even let you pause or rewind live broadcasts.

Finally, it's important to buy enough SCART or HDMI cables to connect all the bits of your new digital TV set up.

Argos Guide

TV RECORDING

When the digital switchover happens, you'll need a new way to record TV programmes.

Hard drives make recording TV simple – just choose shows from an on-screen guide and press the record button.

DVD recorders use discs to make high-quality recordings – so you can swap them with friends or keep them forever.

Recording made easy

Digital recordings

3 STEPS TO RECORDING WITH FREEVIEW

OK CHOOSE
Select a programme to watch or record.

RECORD
Press enter to record to your hard drive or on DVD.

PLAY
Select programme from the on screen menu and enjoy.

The introduction of digital TV will change the way you control your viewing and record programmes. Unlike complex video recorders, digital recorders are incredibly easy to use. They include a digital tuner to pick up all the Freeview TV and radio channels, plus a DVD disc or large hard drive to record many hours worth of your favourite shows.

An electronic programme guide (EPG) lets you choose all the programmes you want to record in a week, or even further in advance. And best of all, there's no winding through tapes to find space for recording or long videoplus numbers. In fact, everything happens instantly, so you can simply choose a programme from the listing on screen.

Different ways to record

Freeview Playback

Ever missed the best bit of a movie because you had to answer the phone? The great news is, Freeview playback Digital TV recorders let you pause live TV broadcasts by simply pressing a button – you can even rewind the channel to create your very own instant replays!

Digital TV recorders with hard drives are the simplest way to record up to 100 hours of TV. There are no tapes or discs to worry about – it's all done using an easy-to-use TV and recording menu.

Many Freeview Playback Digital TV recorders also have twin tuners, so you can watch one show while you record another — or even record two channels at the same time. It's the ultimate in digital flexibility.

And this is all done with simple one touch recording.

DVD players let you play movies and CDs, while advanced DVD recorders let you create your own discs. With DVD recorders you can build up a library of programmes or even share them with your friends.

Blank DVD discs come in various types. DVD-R and DVD+R are affordable discs for creating permanent recordings, while DVD-RW, DVD+RW and DVD-RAM can be used over and over again. Don't worry too much about the different formats – most discs will work on most players – but do check first if you want to share recordings with friends.

By choosing a DVD recorder with a hard drive you can combine the best of both worlds. These multi-functional recorders let you pause live TV, have great onscreen programme guides, and also let you instantly back up important recordings to DVD.

Connecting your recorder

Don't forget to buy enough cables to connect your recorder to your TV. All recorders will work using traditional SCART leads, but some also have HDMI sockets. These will upscale the output to your TV so it is almost high definition and they're ready for connection to HD Ready TVs. They'll produce pin sharp pictures and carry surround sound too.

As well as carrying pin-sharp video and surround sound, HDMI cables will help you get to grips with your new system, as often components from the same manufacturer can be controlled from a single remote. You can find a selection of SCART, HDMI, audio leads and more on page 898.

HD players

Blu-ray and HD-DVD

Blu-ray Disc HD DVD

Take the next step up from DVD with a High Definition player. These let you watch all your favourite films with super-sharp detail, realistic colours and amazing surround sound.

Blu-ray and HD-DVD discs use the highest possible high definition quality (1080 lines), bringing cinema quality video into your home.

By using a Blu-ray or HD-DVD player with normal DVDs you'll still get a sharper, smoother picture – perfect for using with a HD Ready flatscreen TV.

Argos Quick Guide to set top boxes

A set top box gives you Freeview digital channels through your existing TV at no extra cost. Plug the box into your TV and aerial, and you'll have up to 70 digital channels, including 20 digital radio stations. You'll also be ready for digital switchover in 2012, when all traditional broadcasts will be replaced with digital ones. To make sure you can receive digital TV in your home, visit www.freeview.co.uk. For more information, see page 864.

Argos Quick Guide
to choosing DVD recorders with hard disc drives

A DVD recorder means you can record your favourite TV programmes and store them permanently on a DVD disc. You can get DVD recorders with a hard disk built in, which lets you choose and set recordings by name – some will also let you pause and rewind live TV. Some also come with a Freeview digital tuner, which lets you record programmes from dozens of digital channels. You can check whether you're able to receive digital TV in your home by visiting www.freeview.co.uk.

|---|---|---|
| DIGITAL | Yes | Digital tells you that the recorder includes a digital Freeview tuner. See p866 for more details. |
| RECORDING FORMAT | DVD+R/RW | Recording format is the type of disc your recorder uses. All recorders use discs that can be played on almost all DVD players. |
| HDMI | 1 | HDMI tells you how many HDMI sockets the DVD recorder has. You need these to connect it to HD (High Definition) Ready TVs. |
| SCART SOCKETS | 2 | SCART sockets tells you how many SCART sockets the DVD recorder has. You need these to connect it to most TVs and video recorders. |
| SCART LEAD | Yes | SCART leads shows that the box comes with a SCART lead included. |
| HDD SIZE / REC TIME | 80GB | HDD size / rec time tells you how much space there is on the built-in hard disc, and how many recordings you can make before you need to delete programmes. |
| HD UPSCALING | 1080i | HD Upscaling gives you extra sharp, almost High Definition playback on an HD Ready TV, when you have an HDMI or component video connection. |

Always included...
- Remote control
- Auto set up

SAVE 1/3 on RW discs cat no 534/4053 £4.66 (usual price £6.99) when bought with items 5, 7, 8.

Home cinema systems from only £29.99

Argos Quick Guide to Home cinema systems

With a home cinema system, you can experience amazing cinema like surround sound in the comfort of your living room. Some come with their own built-in DVD drive, while others connect to your DVD player.

SYSTEM 5.1 A 2.1 system comes with two main speakers and a subwoofer for deep bass sounds. A 3.1 has a left, right and centre speaker plus subwoofer, these use acoustics to 'bounce' sound around you with no wires for rear speakers. A 5.1 system uses five speakers and a subwoofer for an even more realistic cinema experience.

OUTPUT 100 WATTS RMS the higher it is, the louder and clearer the sound will be.

DVD YES includes a built-in DVD player.

SURROUND DOLBY DIGITAL the sound system it supports. Dolby Pro Logic II transforms any stereo signal into surround sound, while Dolby Digital and DTS make it sound like you're in the cinema. Virtual creates surround sound without the need for rear speakers by bouncing the sound off the walls.

HDMI YES how many HDMI sockets the system has. You need these to connect it to HD (High Definition) Ready TVs.

TUNER DAB/FM can receive FM or DAB digital radio.

Argos Quick Guide to TV aerials

All our aerials receive traditional analogue TV signals. Many of them can pick up digital signals too – although you'll also need a digital TV, set-top box, digital TV recorder or digital DVD recorder to be able to watch digital channels.

Outdoor aerials are fitted on the outside of your house or in the loft. We recommend using an approved installer from the Confederation of Aerial Industries to fit it correctly – visit www.cai.org.uk.

Indoor aerials are generally cheaper and simple to fit, but are less sensitive than outdoor ones – so how well they perform depends on how good the reception is in your area. If your reception is not that great, choose one with a built-in amplifier – this should help reduce interference and give you a clearer picture.

DIGITAL Yes

Digital means the aerial is suitable for receiving Freeview digital TV broadcasts.

FITTING & CABLE Yes

Fitting and cable tells you whether the aerial comes with a mounting kit and cable to run to your TV.

POWER Mains

Power shows you whether the aerial runs on mains or battery power (amplified aerials only).

Argos Quick Guide to HDMI leads

HDMI stands for high-definition multimedia interface. A HDMI lead is basically a more modern version of the SCART lead and is compatible with High Definition TV signals. It's designed to give the best possible picture and sound.

Some High Definition TVs only have one HDMI socket (or even use an older DVI connector). If this is the case you may need an HDMI selector or adaptor.

Gold-plated connectors provide the best contact, for a really clear signal.

MP3 & MP4 PLAYERS

MP3 players store your music digitally by using built-in memory. They're compact, easy to use and will play for hours (or even days) using batteries.

MP4 players do all of this, plus they have full-colour screens so you can watch films on the go. They also let you view thousands of digital photographs.

See page 911 and 923 for our Quick Guides to choosing your MP3 or MP4 player.

How do I choose?

Memory size

The number of songs your MP3 player can store depends on how much memory it has. This is measured in megabytes (Mb). or gigabytes (Gb). Video clips use more memory than songs. The figures below are a guide based on the average length of songs (in WMA format) so you might find you can fit slightly more or less on individual players or using different file formats, such as ATRAC (Sony) or AAC Apple.

| Memory | Hours of video | No of songs | No of photos |
|---|---|---|---|
| 512Mb | - | 256 | - |
| 1Gb | 4 | 500 | 330 |
| 2Gb | 8 | 1,000 | 660 |
| 4Gb | 16 | 2,000 | 1,330 |
| 30Gb | 120 | 15,000 | 10,000 |
| 80Gb | 320 | 40,000 | 26,600 |
| 160Gb | 640 | 80,000 | 53,000 |

Which player is best for me?

If you want to change tunes regularly and listen for short periods only, choose a small, light MP3 player. If you want to store your entire CD collection, choose a player with lots of storage, and select a speaker dock for superb playback.

Playback time is the amount of time you can use your player before recharging. All our MP3 and MP4 players are portable and use either rechargeable or standard batteries. Some can be recharged from the mains, or the USB port on your computer, giving you added flexibility. We recommend that you have a minimum PC specification of Windows 2000/XP to use our players.

Why choose an MP4 player?

MP4 players do everything that MP3 players do, plus they come with built-in LCD screens so you can watch films or display digital images on them. All MP4 players come with headphones so you can listen as well as watch.

Screen sizes go up to 7 inches – don't forget, the larger the screen, the easier you'll find it to view your programmes.

You can also display digital content from an MP4 player onto your home TV screen. Some will even record directly from your TV or DVD player and store on the player's memory.

How do I use my MP3 player?

How do I get music?

You'll need a computer to put songs onto your MP3 player. Most computers with CD or DVD drives can quickly copy or rip CDs from the disc and turn them into digital files. Then you simply need to connect your MP3 player to your computer and transfer the music across – all MP3 players can do this.

You can record over the player's memory as many times as you like, so you can keep your music collection up to date. You can download music from the Internet – some bands give away free songs on their websites, and there are loads of online music stores to browse. This means there are many different file types and ways to download, we have tried to make it simple for you:

CD means the player can only play songs copied or ripped from your CD's to your computer.
DRM9 means you can use most download sites where you pay per song (excluding Sony Connect and Itunes).
ITUNES can only be used with Apple iPod MP3 players.
SONY have their own standard called ATRAC, we recommend you use use Sony's own software and download site.

Accessories

Digital music sounds too good to keep to yourself – why not buy a speaker dock (p.928) to share your tunes? Your MP3 player simply slides in, then hit play to hear your music out loud.

Some speakers take batteries so you can carry them with you, while others use mains power for great-sounding music to rival your home stereo. You can listen to your MP3 player in the car using a FM transmitter. These let you tune in to your MP3 player from any car stereo.

MP4 players from only £129.99

Argos Quick Guide to MP4 players

Want to watch movies on the move? MP4 players can store hours of video clips, as well as thousands of digital photos and MP3 tracks. They have a full-colour screen and headphones, and some will even let you play games or record TV programmes without having to use a computer.

SCREEN SIZE 4.3in is really important because larger LCD screens show more detail and get better colour images.

MEMORY SIZE 40Gb is how many Gb of video clips the player can store. Remember, if you want to save space for music, each hour of video takes up the same space as dozens of songs.

BATTERY LIFE 8 HRS tells you how long you can watch films for before recharging the battery. If you're only listening to music, the battery will last longer.

RECORD FROM TV YES means the player can record programmes directly from most TVs, set top boxes and DVD players.

SIZE (CM) (H)8, (W)14, (D)2 tells you the big the player is.

WEIGHT 62g tells you how heavy it is.

Always included...

- Digital photo playback
- Rechargeable battery
- High-speed USB 2.0 connection for transferring music and videos from your computer

† 30 day exclusion. This product is excluded from the Argos 30 day money back guarantee. This does not affect your statutory rights. Want to know more? See page 1758.

Argos Quick Guide to FM transmitters

Don't keep your favourite music to yourself! These handy devices let you listen to the tunes on your MP3 player or iPod wirelessly through any FM radio – at home or in the car.

Just plug one into your MP3 player, then tune the radio to a clear FM frequency. Some units are battery powered, others use your car's cigarette lighter. A few units designed specifically for Apple iPods will charge them up as they play.

COMPATIBLE | iPod

Compatibility tells you which music players the transmitter will work with. All are compatible with Apple iPods, and some will work with any device that has a standard headphone socket – all MP3 and CD players, plus MP4, DVD and tape players, handheld computers (PDAs) and even a few mobile phones.

DAB & INTERNET RADIO

With digital radio there are more stations to choose from and better reception than ever. Tuning in has never been easier, so say goodbye to hunting for stations! Radio has moved online, too. Internet radio uses a broadband connection to give you instant access to thousands of stations, from local broadcasters to ones on the other side of the world.

See page 932 and 934 for the Argos Quick Guides to help you choose your DAB and Internet radio.

What is DAB radio?

Huge choice of stations

DAB (Digital Audio Broadcasting) is a great way to enjoy radio. Because the broadcasts are digital, more stations fit on the airwaves – so there's more choice, 24 hours a day. You'll find all your favourite stations on DAB, plus many more that are only digital. There are plenty of spoken word, sport, music, local and specialist stations to discover, and you can even listen to every Premiership football match live, and for free. Check you can receive DAB in your area at www.digitalradionow.com or text DAB followed by your postcode to 83252*

*Texts cost 25p plus your operators charge.

Easy to use

Tuning a DAB radio is as easy as changing channels on TV – simply turn the dial and use the LCD screen to choose the name of the station you want to listen to.

And you'll find the screen does other useful things too. On stations playing music, the screen can show the track title and artist name, while news bulletins often bring up scrolling headlines.

Sometimes you'll even see special offers or phone-in numbers for radio programmes.

Great quality sound

Fed up with the interference on traditional radio?

DAB gives great-sounding digital reception. In fact, the audio quality is so good that some DAB radios even come with a stereo socket so you can connect them to your home hi-fi.

You'll also find radios that let you pause or rewind broadcasts. A handheld DAB radio is great for listening on the go, or if you're listening at home, choose a mains-powered one.

What is Internet Radio?

Listen for free online

The Internet means stations from all over the world can broadcast their programmes online.
With an Internet radio, you can tune in to any of them for free, connecting easily using your broadband connection and wireless home network. Scroll through using the dial on the radio and choose a station.

A few internet radios can even record music directly from the internet onto memory cards. For the latest list of radio stations, take a look at www.reciva.com

Worldwide broadcasts

There are over 6000 radio stations broadcast online – from Chicago to Cape Town, Melbourne to Mumbai. You can also tune in to hundreds of regional stations around the UK – so you can keep up with local news, no matter how far away from home you are. Some internet radios can even access the BBC's Listen Again feature, which archives its most popular shows for seven days. That means you can listen, pause or fast forward – whenever it suits you.

Play your own music

Internet radios will work using your home wireless network, so you can also access digital music stored on your home computer.

This means that instead of tuning in to a radio station, you can listen to your very own playlist through your PC, without the normal radio adverts and DJ chatter. Wireless networks are easy to set up at home (see page 1076), and once it's connected, listening is completely free.

Argos Quick Guide to Clock Radios

Clock radios are a great way to make sure you'll always wake up on time. Simply select a radio station or CD, set the alarm (or two if you have a dual alarm), and get a good night's sleep. You can also choose to snooze if you fancy a little lie in.

| SNOOZE | YES | lets you turn off the alarm for a few minutes – giving you a little extra time in bed. |
| DUAL ALARM | YES | lets you set two alarms – ideal if there are two of you getting up at different times. |
| WAKE TO | ALARM/RADIO/CD | wake up with either the radio, alarm or CD. |
| 12/24HR CLOCK | 12HR | lets you choose how the time is displayed. |
| SIZE (CM | (H)4, (W)10, (D)11 | tells you how the big the radio is. |

Argos Quick Guide to in-car stereos

Liven up your drive with a new in-car stereo. These slimline units let you play CDs and listen to the radio through your car's speakers. Some even play digital MP3 files from discs or MP3 players (see page 904). Bluetooth head units will wirelessly receive music from portable audio devices like MP3/MP4 players or mobile phones. For music, the MP3/MP4 player needs to have a Bluetooth adapter and the mobile phone must be A2DP compatible. To receive and make phone calls, all Bluetooth enabled phones will work with the head unit.

POWER OUTPUT 4 x 25

Power output is measured in RMS – the higher the power, the louder and clearer the sound. 4x means the stereo can power four speakers.

TUNER BANDS 20

Tuner bands tell you whether the player picks up FM, AM or DAB radio signals.

RDS/EON Yes

RDS/EON are FM radio systems that improve reception and display which station you're listening to. They also provide local traffic news.

MP3 PLAYBACK Yes

MP3 playback means it can play MP3 CDs made using a computer.

USB PORT Yes

USB port means it can play digital MP3 music using an MP3 player with USB.

Always included...

- Repeat random play
- Bass treble control
- Balance and fader
- ISO connection

SONY

The new extended range from Sony

technology like.no.other

BRAVIA Engine makes Sony BRAVIA unique. It consists of image processing technologies working to improve image quality from any signal.

Live Colour Creation creates a more realistic and natural picture with more vivid greens and deeper reds.

S-FORCE Front Surround Sound creates surround sound in the home without the need for extra speakers.

MotionFlow +100Hz: conventional LCD televisions show 50 pictures, or frames, a second (50Hz). Sony's unique Motion Flow +100Hz digitally generate double the pictures, or frames, per second (100Hz). This reduces motion-blur, ideal for high moving imagery such as sports.

BRAVIA Theatre Sync: With a single touch of a button, control your entire Sony entertainment system* and remove the need for additional remote controls.

The ultimate High Definition format: With 1080 lines in the picture, delivering a smooth high resolution image. This format will deliver the best picture when used with Blu-ray Disc® and Playstation® 3.

SATELLITE NAVIGATION

Satellite navigation systems (or sat navs) can make your car journeys quicker and easier. They use satellites to pinpoint your position on a digital map, guiding you to useful services or addresses anywhere in the country. The units are easily mounted on your dashboard, and many can help to steer you around traffic jams and let you know about speed cameras along the way.

See page 964 for the Argos Quick Guides to help you choose your sat nav.

What is a sat nav?

How does it work?

Sat nav units contain maps of every street in the UK, and sometimes even the whole of Europe.

They use a network of global positioning system (GPS) satellites to pinpoint your location, and use built-in software to tell you the fastest routes from A to B.

Most sat navs have easy-to-use touchscreens and one-touch buttons which make them really easy to use. They're powered from your car's cigarette lighter, meaning you can usually just plug in and go.

Never get lost

Tired of arguing over the road atlases?

Sat navs display digital maps that show clear, 3D views of the road – so you know exactly where you are, and which direction you're heading in.

At the same time, voice guidance talks you through the directions – especially useful when you're at a complex junction. And don't worry if you miss a turn - your sat nav will re-calculate your route and steer you back on course in moments.

Easy to use

There are lots of ways to use your sat nav. You can find a house by its street or postcode, or even search for the nearest petrol station.

They're incredibly easy to use – you can access all the features through a touchscreen and the route appears as turn-by-turn instructions so you're always one step ahead.

And if you're in a hurry, the unit will even give you an estimated time of arrival.

Features to look for

The basics

All sat navs have a touchscreen.

Larger screens are easier to use and show more map detail, units with full postcode search can direct you right to the door of your destination. All sat navs come with a database including places of interest and useful services such as petrol stations, car parks, hotels and cafés - so they're particularly handy in new towns.

You can also store your own favourite locations – giving you easy navigation to a friend's house or hard-to-find restaurant.

The extras

Say goodbye to sitting in traffic! Up-to-the minute updates help you avoid major jams.

Some sat navs pick up traffic alerts over the radio, others through your mobile phone. They then automatically calculate another route – saving you time, petrol and money.

The radio system, called TMC (Traffic Messaging Channel), is usually free to use, while phone updates (via Bluetooth) often involve a subscription. Sometimes Bluetooth sat navs can also help you make hands-free calls, or even read text messages out loud.

Many sat navs store the locations of every speed camera in Britain, alerting you as you approach them.

It's a great way to stay safe and keep an eye on your speed. For the latest camera info, you might need a PC, and sometimes you'll have to pay a subscription – but it's well worth it for peace of mind.

If you travel a lot, look for a sat nav with full European maps. A few have advanced features, such as MP3 playback, iPod connection and photo storage. Battery-powered sat navs can be taken out of the car to help you navigate on foot, too.

DIGITAL CAMERAS

A digital camera lets you zoom in closer, take sharper images and master family portraits quickly and easily. And what's more, many are small enough to fit in your pocket.

Simple controls make them really easy to use, and – best of all – you can view, share and even print your images in seconds.

See page 972 for the Argos Quick Guide to choosing your camera.

How do I choose the right digital camera for me?

More detail

A digital photo is made up of millions of tiny dots, which are called pixels. These are measured in millions, or megapixels, and the more megapixels your camera has (or the higher the resolution), the clearer your photos will be.

A higher number of megapixels also means you can enlarge your photos without losing out on picture quality. So if you want to take big photos that you can put in a frame, look for a higher resolution.

Bigger, brighter screens

The latest compact digital cameras have large, sharp, full-colour screens.

The bigger the screen, the easier it is to frame great photos, and to view and share them once they're taken.

The largest screens are 3 inches or more, and some cameras also feature helpful extras like a power boost for sunny days and high-sensitivity settings for taking photos in low light.

Get closer

All digital cameras come with a zoom, so you can get closer to the action and capture people's expressions. There are two different types of zoom to choose from – optical and digital.

Digital zoom enlarges the centre of the image, although you might lose some detail. Optical zoom is much better, as it uses lenses to magnify the image until it looks close enough to touch. Most optical zooms give 3x magnification, but you can also buy cameras with 5x, 10x or more.

Get more from your digital camera

No more blur

With some digital cameras, you don't need a steady hand to take great pictures. Anti-blur is a really helpful feature that reduces the effect of a shaky camera and low light. This makes digital cameras even better for parties, sunsets and portraits. Anti-blur can be digital or optical. Digital means software inside the camera alters the image, optical is better as the camera detects actual shake and compensates for it. Combined they give even better results.

A high ISO (sensitivity) setting also helps, letting you shoot in lower light without using the camera's built-in flash.

Faces in focus

When you take a picture of a group of people, an ordinary camera doesn't always make it easy to focus on their faces.

However, some digital cameras now come with face detection, which instantly picks people out from the background, making their faces crystal clear.

Really clever face detection systems can even focus on several people at once or even track moving faces, for example footballers on a pitch. That means you get a great picture, every time.

Memory, power and printing

All digital cameras come with a very limited memory so we recommend you buy a bigger card to take and store more pictures. We have recommend a suitable card for each camera.

Digital cameras use either normal AA, AAA or slimmer, longer lasting lithium ion rechargeable batteries which are better for the environment.

Most digital cameras let you print real photos without a trip into town. You don't even need a PC – just connect your camera to a PictBridge printer, choose the images you want, and they'll be ready in minutes. You can also display photos using a state-of-the-art digital frame.

Argos Quick Guide to Digital cameras

OPTICAL ZOOM 3x – the larger the zoom, the closer you can get to the subject.

LCD SCREEN 1.5in – bigger screens make it easier to frame your pictures and you can share playback too.

ANTI BLUR BOTH – optical stabilisation reduces the chance of blurred images. Digital stabilisation decreases blur but can add grainy 'noise' to photos. Cameras with both give the best results.

FACE DETECTION YES – is clever technology that focuses on faces – giving you sharper quality portraits every time.

BATTERY TYPE 2 x AA – Li-ion rechargeable batteries are better for the environment and save money, versus AA batteries.

FORMAT SD – type of memory card storage used.

MAX ISO 200 – shows how sensitive the camera is to low light. A high ISO setting (1600 or above) lets you take photos in dim conditions without a flash.

STYLE SLIM – slim cameras will fit in your pocket, while compact models can be carried in your bag. High zoom cameras allow you to get closer to your subject without spoiling the quality.

FUJIFILM

What is... Face Detection?

Photographs of friends and family are among the most popular in day-to-day photography.

Yet these are the shots that are hardest to get right because the best photographs are not the posed ones, but those that are unexpected.

Fujifilm's Face Detection identifies up to 10 faces in 0.05 seconds – making sure that the subject is always in focus.

✗ WITHOUT Face Detection

What is Real Photo Technology?

The secret to great images 24/7

- Great photos, even in very low light.
- Less camera shake, less blur.
- Flash-free pictures to capture the atmosphere.
- Ultra fast start-up.
- Increased flash range.

SLR CAMERAS

Digital SLR cameras combine amazingly sharp image quality with super-fast shutter speeds and simple operation – so great pictures are just a click away.

Flexible lenses mean you'll get a much sharper image, and you can add on new accessories and lenses as your skills develop.

See below for the Argos Quick Guide to SLRs to help you choose a camera.

Why should I buy a digital SLR camera?

Better images

Because digital SLR cameras have bigger sensor chips than other cameras, you get sharper, more natural pictures. And because they're more detailed, your photos look as good blown up as they do in an album.

Some also come with image-stabilisation – a useful feature that gives you blur-free shots. Their flexible zooms are really easy to adjust too – just twist the lens to bring subjects as close as you want.

Instant capture

With a digital SLR, you don't get the time delays of a compact camera – just press the shutter and you'll instantly capture the moment you want.

They also let you take shot after shot without the camera having to recover in between - perfect for pictures of high-speed sports, or fleeting moments like candles being blown out on a cake.

Easy to use

Today's digital SLRs are really user-friendly, with automatic shooting modes that mean you'll be taking professional-looking photos in no time.

They also come with loads of handy extra features including high shutter speeds to freeze fast action, larger zooms that let you focus in on tiny details, and manual controls for when you're feeling creative.

Instant upgrades

The great thing about owning an SLR is that as your photography skills develop, your camera can grow with you.

A range of accessories are available to help you take extra special photos, including tripods to keep the camera steady, and powerful flashes for great indoor shots.

SLRs also come with interchangeable lenses, so you can swap quickly between close-ups and zoomed-in pictures.

EOS 20th ANNIVERSARY

The best technology for the best photographs you can Canon

As a photographer just starting out, buying a Canon EOS camera is one of the most important purchases you will make. That's because you're buying far more than just a camera, you're investing in a camera system that can grow with you.

Self-Cleaning Sensor

Canon's EOS Integrated Cleaning System, now in the EOS 400D. This works in three ways:

Reduce The camera's internal mechanisms and body cap have been redesigned to prevent dust generation through wear.

Repel Anti-static technologies applied to the low-pass filter covering the front of the sensor, actually repel dust.

Remove A Self-Cleaning Sensor Unit omits momentary hi-frequency vibrations at start-up shaking dust from the low pass filter and is disabled on shutter release for instant shooting.

Finally the EOS 400D's Dust Delete Data system maps the location of any visible dust on the sensor so it can then be deleted automatically with Digital Photo Professional software.

to Memory cards and sticks

Get more from your camera
Don't miss a minute...
live it, store it, print it!

A memory card allows you to store lots of information securely. They can be used in cameras, camcorders, games consoles, mobile phones, MP3 players and other devices. The data is measured in MB (Megabytes) or GB (Gigabytes). 1Gb is 1024 Megabytes, the more memory, the more pictures or other information you can store.

A 7MP camera can store about 586 pictures on a 1GB memory card, but with a 2GB memory card you can store about 1173 pictures. If you use a digital SLR camera, you may require a faster card to enable you to take quicker pictures in succession and to transfer them to your PC faster. Your camera or camcorder will have a specific memory card type recommended based on its compatibility.

ARGOS RECOMMENDS To make your decision we have recommended which memory card you should buy with your camera or camcorder. This is detailed on the text of each camera or camcorder.

Formats explained:

SD = Secure digital: High storage capacity, ideal for everyday use. Compatible with the Nintendo Wii.

CF= Compact Flash: The ability for higher storage capacity at a higher quality.

SDHC = Secure Digital High Capacity: These cards are not the same as standard SD cards and can only be used with cameras and camcorders that are compatible with SDHC cards.

XD = eXtreme Digital: It is compact in design and has high storage capacities. Only used by Fuji and Olympus cameras.

Memory sticks: Allow you to store and transfer a multitude of high resolution photos and videos. The Pro Duo has the additional advantage of compatibility with the PSP and PS3.

Argos Quick Guide to Digital photo frames

Digital photo frames are a fantastic new way to enjoy looking at your photos. They use a colour screen to display sharp, pixel-perfect digital images, stored using built-in memory or easy-to-use memory cards. You can choose your favourite picture or set up an ever-changing photo slideshow – so the picture in the frame keeps refreshing.

RESOLUTION 480 x 234 is measured in pixels. The more pixels, the sharper and clearer your photos will be.

REMOTE CONTROL YES lets you turn it on and select photos from across the room.

PICTURE ROTATION YES lets you choose between portrait or landscape orientation for each photo.

MP3 PLAYER YES means you can add background music or even a voice commentary to your slideshow.

VIDEO PLAYER (MPEG) YES means the frame will also show digital video clips (in MPEG format).

SLIDESHOW YES shows all the images on the memory card in turn, or at random.

MEMORY CARD MMC/SD tells you the types of camera memory cards the frame can use.

CAMCORDERS

The latest camcorders use digital technology to give you sharp images, smooth colours and really crisp sound.

They're really easy to use, and whether you've got a widescreen, flat screen or High Definition TV, playing back your movies couldn't be simpler. You can even share your clips online.

See page 1006 for the Argos Quick Guides to help you choose your camcorder.

Which type of camcorder is right for me?

MiniDV

A MiniDV model is a great-value camcorder that uses small tapes – a really affordable way to permanently store all your home movies.

Each tape holds up to one hour of superb-quality digital footage, which can either be played back instantly on your TV or put onto your computer for editing.

They also often come with extra features, including a long optical zoom and digital photo capture. Video lights and image stabilisation are also really useful, as they reduce blur and let you film in low light.

DVD

A DVD camcorder records straight on to small discs that you can play back straight away on most home DVD players.

You can also record over your movies again and again – just like with a video, but with higher-quality pictures that last longer.

DVDs come in a few different formats (DVD-RW, +RW and –RAM) – make sure you check which ones your camcorder takes before you buy the discs. Don't worry, we've recommended the right format under each of our DVD camcorders.

Hard Disk Drive and flash

These camcorders use all-digital technology including hard disk drives and flash memory cards.

Hard drive camcorders give you longer recording times (of up to 30 hours), while flash memory models are tough and small enough to carry around in your pocket. As an added bonus, neither of them need tapes or discs, so there's no need to buy anything extra. Both types also let you connect your camcorder to your TV, or easily transfer the digital files to your PC.

That means you'll be able to put your films on websites or even email them to friends!

Key features to look out for...

Optical zoom

Every camcorder has an optical zoom lens, and the larger the zoom amount, the closer it can get. That means you can fill the frame with whatever it is you're taking pictures of – from flowers to smiley faces.

Digital zooms let you get 100x closer or more – but bear in mind this can result in a lower-quality image. For best results, a tripod can help prevent camera shake (see p. 997).

Screen size

An LCD screen lets you see what you're filming and view footage you've already shot. Camcorders are generally easier to use if they have a larger screen – especially when you need to adjust menu settings.

Also, some camcorders can film in true widescreen – this gives you top-quality playback on widescreen and flat screen TVs. First-time moviemakers might also find touch-screen displays easier to use.

Scenes and sounds

All our camcorders come with a range of automatic modes that make filming easy – so you don't need to worry about adjusting lighting or exposure. These include some special modes for special occasions like beach holidays or candle-lit parties.

They also have a built-in stereo microphone, and some feature Dolby Digital surround sound for a truly cinematic experience.

High definition

The films you make with any camcorder will look really clear when you play them back on your TV, but with a High Definition (HD) camcorder, you can make the experience even better.

When played back on an HD Ready TV (see p.832), films from an HD camcorder will be even clearer and sharper. They capture deeper colours and four times the detail of traditional models, and all come with cinema-style surround sound.

MOBILE PHONES

You can't beat the convenience of a mobile phone, and the latest handsets do much more than just make calls. As well as large colour screens, many of them also feature powerful cameras and great music players.

Choosing a phone

Screens and styles

Mobile phones come in all shapes and sizes. The most compact type are sliding and folding handsets, or you might prefer the simplicity of a more traditional design. A big colour screen makes texting much easier – and is also essential for viewing photos (or playing games).

Talking technology

If you're planning to use your phone abroad, you'll need a tri-band or quad band phone. 3G handsets let you browse the web quickly and easily. It's illegal to use your handset while you're driving, so choose a Bluetooth phone to connect a hands-free headset (see page 1029).

Choosing a network

Once you've chosen your phone, you'll need to select a network. There are lots to choose from, each with their own benefits and special offers. Remember, not all phones are available on all networks.

Fun and fashion

Check out our range of fashion phones for a great selection of stylish and sophisticated mobiles. We've got all the latest designs in a range of colours. You'll want to keep your phone in tip-top condition, so check out our range of cases on page 1030.

Music on the move

With a music phone, you won't need to carry a separate MP3 player. You can simply listen to your music or FM radio through headphones. Many phones have a memory card slot, so you'll be able to store hundreds of tunes. See page 1030 for our range of memory cards.

Photos and videos

Our photo phones can take pictures that are sharp and clear enough to print out. You can also send picture messages and emails to your friends too. Explore the multimedia revolution even more by shooting video clips to play back or post on the Internet.

Argos Quick Guide to music phones

Music phones keep you entertained when you're on the move. Some come with high-quality stereo headphones and memory for storing lots of digital MP3 tunes. If you want to store even more music, it's a good idea to buy a bigger memory card so you can add hundreds more tracks. Some can tune in to FM radio, too.

These are the most important features on music phones, see the quick guide on page 1024 for all features.

MP3 YES means the phone can play music that's in an MP3 format, either through headphones or built-in speakers. Some music phones can play songs in other formats, too.

MEMORY 2M what type of card the phone takes for additional space to store ringtones, music or photos.

VIDEO YES lets you make short video clips to send to your friends or watch on your computer.

BLUETOOTH YES means the phone can connect wirelessly to things like hands-free headsets. It will also let you share tunes and games with nearby phones.

Argos Quick Guide to photo phones

Today's high-resolution camera phones are good enough quality to replace your digital camera. They have digital zooms so you can get closer to the action, automatic settings for different scenes and sometimes even a bright flash for night shooting. Many can now shoot video clips, too.

CAMERA VGA gives the resolution of the phone's built-in camera (measured in megapixels). 1MP cameras are great for picture messaging, but if you'd like to print photos, you should choose one with a minimum of 2MP. 3.2MP cameras give sharp, high-quality images that are as good as normal cameras.

SCREEN RES 65K tells you how sharp the main screen is. The higher the resolution, the clearer your text, images, games and videos will be.

MEMORY 2M what type of card the phone takes for additional space to store ringtones, music or photos.

VIDEO YES lets you make short video clips to send to your friends or watch on your computer.

BLUETOOTH YES means the phone can connect wirelessly to things like hands-free headsets. It will also let you share photos and games with nearby phones.

Argos Quick Guide to Bluetooth

Bluetooth™

If you often need to use your mobile in the car, a Bluetooth headset is the hands-free, wireless way to help you stay safe - and legal. Remember, there are 3 points on your licence and a £60 fixed penalty if you're caught using your handset, which could go up to as much as £1,000.

What is it?
Bluetooth technology allows you to use your mobile hands-free with a wireless headset. It works by sending a secure signal of up to 10 metres between the Bluetooth headset and a Bluetooth-compatible mobile phone. This allows you to make and receive calls when you're driving more easily, safely and helps you remain legal.

Advantages
Bluetooth technology gives you true hands-free communication, without cables. You can also use the voice-activated dialling function on your Bluetooth mobile when you use your Bluetooth headset.

To confirm Bluetooth compatibility of your phone, please call 0870 990 1688 Calls charged at national rate.

Two way radios from only £14.87

Argos Quick Guide to Two way radios

These long-range radios are completely free to use and are great for outings and holidays when you want to stay in touch with a group of friends and family. They're great for places where there's no mobile phone reception, making them the perfect companions for walking, skiing, fishing – or just a big shopping trip!

CHANNELS 304 shows how many different frequencies you can select. The more channels the better security and protection.

RECHARGEABLE POD tells you whether they recharge in a convenient pod, or simply plug into the mains.

RANGE 8KM is the typical outdoor range of the radios, dependent on the terrain and surroundings.

BATTERY LIFE 12 HOURS is how long they will typically last between charges.

INTERNET PHONES

Internet (or VoIP) phones let you make cheap, or even free, phone calls anywhere in the world, simply using your computer and internet connection. You can call Australia for nothing, or connect to a mobile phone in Birmingham for pennies – all using a handset that looks and sounds just like a normal phone.

How does it work?

Call for less or even free

An internet phone connects easily to almost any computer, using your broadband internet connection to send and receive calls.

Calls to other internet phones are often completely free, and calls to other numbers – including landlines and mobiles – will be cheap, so internet phones are especially great value when you're calling abroad.

There are no additional line rental charges either, so it's easy to keep track of just how little you're spending.

Easy to use

All our internet phones come with everything you need to get started, including a helpful quick start guide to get you set up.

All you need is a computer with a broadband internet connection – that way you'll get the best sound quality.

And there's no need to worry about getting used to an internet phone – you can use a handset that looks and sounds just like the one you're used to. You can dial and store numbers just like on a normal phone, or even manage your contacts on your computer.

Extra features

Internet calling brings your phone into the 21st century. Some internet phone networks offer voicemail, or even let you buy a phone number so you can receive calls from any normal phone – callers won't even know you're using a PC!

If you and a friend add webcams to your computers, you'll be able to see each other while you talk. Video calling only works between people on the same network, but it doesn't usually cost any extra – so there's no better way to communicate with friends and family overseas.

How do I get it?

Choose a network

There are several different internet phone networks available, such as Skype and BT Broadband Talk.

As with mobile phone networks, most offer a similar service but with different calling costs and benefits. So when you choose your internet phone, you'll also be choosing a network.

Calls you make to anyone on the same network will be very cheap or free, even if they live abroad. You simply pay for charged calls through a pre-pay account, like a pay-as-you-go mobile phone, but much cheaper!

Choose a phone

There are a range of internet phones available.

USB phones are the cheapest way to get started. They simply plug in to your PC or laptop through a USB port, so they're ideal for calls on the move.

Desk phones also use USB ports, but look like traditional corded telephones. They're great for more frequent use at home or in the office.

DECT phones look like digital cordless phones, so they're perfect for making internet calls if you're moving about your home or garden. They also come with multiple handsets.

Choosing extras

If you want to try video calling, check out our wide range of webcams and hands-free headsets (these let you type while you talk), on page 1058.

Internet phones don't interfere with normal phonelines, in fact, desk and DECT internet phones are also available as dual phones. These let you use just one handset for normal calls or internet calls at the flick of a switch, so they're very flexible.

It's also sensible to keep a normal corded phone (see page 1055) in the house for emergencies, as internet phones like cordless phones won't work in a power cut.

Argos Quick Guide to webcams

A webcam is a small camera that attaches to your computer, so friends and family all over the world can see you. If you buy a webcam with a microphone you'll be able to chat over the web, too. You can also make free internet phone calls, with video if you like (see internet phones on page 1056). Webcams are also a great way to send photos and video directly from your desktop, or you can even use them to keep an eye on your home while you're away.

VIDEO RESOLUTION 640X480 Video resolution is the size of the movie clips you can capture, in pixels. The higher the number, the clearer your video will look. ▲Software enhanced.

STILL RESOLUTION 1.3MP Still resolution is the quality of the still photos you can capture, in megapixels. The more megapixels your webcam has, the sharper your pictures will be. Software enhanced.

MICROPHONE Yes Microphone means it comes with a built-in microphone so you can use it as an internet phone or for video phone calls.

ZOOM Yes Zoom lets you magnify the image for close-ups. Webcams with software zooming enlarge the central part of the frame, whereas those with hardware zooming usually give a clearer image.

TRACKING Yes Face tracking is advanced technology that follows your face during video calls. Webcams with software tracking simply focus on your features, while those with hardware tracking actually move to follow you about the room.

HEADSET Yes Headset lets you make and receive calls hands free. They're useful for when you're typing or playing computer games.

Argos Quick Guide to speakers

You'll need computer speakers for listening to music, watching films, playing games and sometimes even browsing the web. All our speakers give great stereo audio, but some also offer multi-channel sound, which adds a woofer for deeper bass. You might even want surround speakers for a fully encompassing sound experience.

SPEAKERS 2x8W — Speakers tells you how many smaller desktop speakers are included, and how much power will be available to each. The higher the power (measured in watts RMS), the louder and clearer the speakers will sound.

WOOFER 9W — Woofer is an additional, larger speaker that boosts deep, bass sounds. The higher its power (measured in watts RMS), the louder the bass will be.

SOUND QUALITY ★★★ — Sound quality is measured in stars. ★★★ means you'll get top-quality sound for listening to music and watching DVDs on your PC. ★★ means the speakers are great for listening to music, and ★ means the speakers are suitable for listening to sound clips.

VOLUME CONTROL Yes — Volume control lets you adjust your music without using your PC's keyboard or mouse.

Argos Quick Guide to flatscreen monitors

Flatscreen, sometimes know as TFT or thin-film transistor monitors, are a great way to save room on your desk. These stylish computer screens are super-slim and show colours at their most vibrant. That's great news if you play computer games, as they'll look more realistic – or you can just enjoy browsing the web in full detail.

WIDESCREEN Yes – Widescreen format monitors are perfect for watching DVD films on your PC.

RESOLUTION 640x480 – Resolution shows how much detail the screen will display. Higher resolutions give sharper images, so they're better for watching movies, playing games or viewing digital photos.

SPEAKERS 2 x 5w – Speakers built in to the monitor give brilliant stereo sound. The higher the power, measured in watts, the louder and clearer the sound will be.

INPUT Analogue – Inputs can be either analogue or digital. Digital inputs give cleaner images, and analogue inputs work with all computers.

RESPONSE TIME 12ms – Response time measures how well the monitor handles fast-moving images, like those in computer games. The lower the response time, the less blurring you'll see.

CONTRAST RATIO 500:1 – Contrast ratio affects how well it can depict dark colours and highlights. A high contrast gives rich, solid black tones and bright, clear whites.

Argos Quick guide to choosing mice & keyboards

Upgrading your keyboard and mouse can make using your computer more comfortable, so you can work more easily and enjoy playing games faster. New wireless technology also means you can control your PC from anywhere in the room.

BUTTONS 3 buttons can sometimes be programmed to suit different applications.

4-WAY SCROLL Yes 4-way scroll means your mouse will scroll left to right as well as up and down, helping you navigate the screen faster.

CONNECT USB Connect shows how the keyboard links to your PC - either with a PS/2 socket or a normal USB plug.

TYPE Optical Mouse type tells you what surfaces it can be used on. Optical mice will work on most surfaces, not just a mouse pad. Laser mice are better still, giving super-accurate tracking even on shiny desks.

WIRELESS NETWORKING

A wireless home network allows everyone in your house to share a broadband internet connection or printer, without the need for complicated cabling.

You can surf the web or email from the sofa or swap files between PCs in seconds – plus it's easy to add extra computers later on.

What can WI-FI do?

Connect the whole household

By simply plugging your router into a phone or cable socket, your entire home can be connected into a wireless network through one central point. It's quick, easy, secure and most importantly, there are no wires!

3 easy steps to wireless

1 How do you connect to the Internet?

Via a broadband phone line

If you connect through the phone line (ADSL), with a provider such as BT, AOL, Orange, Tiscali or Pipex, you'll need a modem router. This plugs into your phone line, replacing your existing modem.

Via cable Internet

If you connect through a cable provider (e.g. Virgin Media), you will need a cable router. This will connect to your existing cable modem to create your wireless network.

Both devices create a wireless network, but you'll need the right one for your connection.

2 What computers do you want to link?

Connect a desktop PC

You can connect your PC wirelessly by installing a PCI card (you'll have to fit this inside your computer), or by using a USB adaptor that simply plugs into a standard USB slot.

Connect a laptop

Many modern laptops come with built-in wireless (Wi-Fi). If yours doesn't, you can make it wireless with a laptop card (PCICMA) or using a USB adaptor. Both simply plug into your laptop.

3 How fast & far will the network reach?

Network range and speed

The standard range is known as G. However, if you have a big house, thick walls, or want to share your network over a larger area, look for a modem or cable router with a wider range. These are known as G+ (G plus, G+ MIMO, or N1), or N.

Network speed is the speed at which your computers connect to each other (it doesn't affect your internet speed). Speed is measured in Mbps (megabits per second), with the standard being 54Mbps. If you're transferring a lot of files you'll need a faster router of up to 300Mbps.

Speed and range work hand in hand, a router with a higher speed will have a bigger range.

Why not add a printer or other equipment?

It's easy to add extra equipment to your network. You can buy a wireless print server to convert your existing printer or get a wireless one. You can also add a wireless internet phone (see page 1056) – the possibilities are endless.

Argos Quick guide
to laser printers

These high-speed printers are the best choice if you print lots of black and white text documents, as they offer great quality with the lowest running costs. Some all-in-one models even include a flatbed for scanning or simple photocopying, and a few can use colour inks, too.

PRINT SPEED Mono 12ppm — Print speed is the highest number of pages it can print per minute, in black and white (text) or colour.

PRINT RESOLUTION 600x600dpi — Print resolution is measured in DPI (dots per inch). The higher the DPI, the clearer images and photos will look. Every all-in-one printer will be able to create sharp-looking text documents.

SCAN RESOLUTION 600x1200dpi — Scan resolution tells you how much detail it can capture. The higher the resolution, the more fine detail you'll see in scanned photos and documents.

PAPER CAPACITY 150 — Paper capacity tells you how many sheets of paper it can hold at a time.

Always included...
- USB 2.0 connectivity

Argos Quick guide
to choosing an ink cartridge

Just use the tables on these pages along with our quick step-by-step guide to select the right cartridge for your printer.

Step 1. Find your printer brand, i.e Canon, Olivetti, HP, Lexmark, Epson or Brother.

Step 2. Decide whether you want an original, compatible or remanufactured cartridge (difference explained below).

Step 3. Look for your printer type, i.e Lexmark X1190, listed above the boxes OR, look for your cartridge's part number, in the boxes OR, look for your cartridge's catalogue number in the boxes.

Original cartridges – They're exactly the same as the ones your printer came with.

Compatible cartridges – They're a non-branded alternative to originals.

Remanufactured cartridges – They're recycled, refilled cartridges, so they're often cheaper than the originals.

Paper and Ink Packs – These contain ink and photo paper. They usually work out cheaper than buying both separately.

Argos Quick Guide to Laminators

Laminators let you protect important documents like certificates and photos that could deteriorate over time. They're easy to use - simply slip the picture or paper into a special pouch (these can be bought separately) and insert it into the laminator.

MAX SIZE A4 — Max size tells you the largest paper size the machine can laminate.

MAX POUCH THICKNESS 150microns — Max pouch thickness tells you the maximum thickness of the pouches it can seal. 2x75 micron pouches are ok for covering normal documents, but you'll need a machine that can laminate extra-thick 2x125 micron pouches for stand-up items like menus.

ADJUSTABLE TEMP Yes — Higher temperatures are better for thicker documents in larger pouches.

HEAT GUARD Yes — Heat guard means its cool to touch while in use, for extra safety.

JAM RELEASE Yes — Jam release automatically frees jammed-up documents.

Argos Quick Guide to shredders

Identity theft is a growing problem in the UK, so it's sensible to dispose of your personal letters and documents securely. Shredders reduce letters, bills and sometimes even credit cards and CDs to tiny pieces.

|---|---|
| CUT TYPE: Cross | Cut type tells you how the shredder cuts the paper. If you use a shredder all the time, cross-cut versions provide the ultimate in security. Strip-cut versions are good for basic shredding. |
| PIECES: 4x36mm | Pieces tells you how many bits one sheet of A4 will be cut into. The higher the number, the harder it would be for anyone to reconstruct your documents. |
| BIN SIZE: 8.5 litres | Bin size lets you know how many litres of waste paper it can hold. |
| STAPLES: Yes | Staples means it won't break if there are metal staples in documents. |
| CREDIT CARDS: Yes | Credit cards means it can cut up credit cards securely. |
| CDs: Yes | CDs means it can shred confidental computer CDs. |

Argos Quick guide to digital dictation

Digital dictation machines use built-in memory to store hours of voice or music recordings digitally, with hiss-free clarity. They're much more compact than tape versions, plus they're shockproof, power-efficient and connect easily to your PC, so you can store recordings permanently.

MEMORY 64 MB
Memory shows how much built-in memory, measured in megabytes (Mb), it has.

RECORD 10 HRS
Record is the total recording time possible.

FOLDERS 6
Folders allow you to organise your recordings by subject. The more folders there are to choose from, the more options you have for storing sound clips.

PC LINK YES
PC link lets you transfer recordings to your computer.

VOICE ACTIVATED -
Voice activated means you don't have to remember to hit the record button – it'll start recording automatically when it picks up sound.

HEADPHONE SOCKET YES
Headphone socket is useful if you want to be able to listen to your recordings in private.

Argos Quick guide
to drills

Cordless screwdrivers

Compact, versatile and brilliant for small jobs around the house such as flat pack furniture. Other features to consider include a light for poorly lit areas, lithium-ion battery technology which means the battery does not go flat when left for long periods of time and some products come with a handy carry case. All screwdrivers come with standard sized accessories.

Cordless drill drivers

Great for small jobs around the house and garden, not only can it perform all the functions of a screwdriver, but also light drilling tasks such as into thin pieces of wood and plaster board. All drill drivers are cordless which means not only can you take them anywhere you also do not have to tow an extension lead behind you making your work area much safer. Higher voltage means more power which makes it easier and quicker for tougher drilling tasks such as driving long screws into woodwork. You may also want to consider a drill with 2 batteries which allows you to continue to work without having to stop and recharge. Drill drivers with 2 gears allows you to select a lower drill speed to produce more turning power, this is ideal when driving long screws into wood.

Cordless hammer drills

This is by far the most useful, versatile power tool you can own, as it can undertake all the functions of a drill driver but at the flick of a switch can be converted from a standard rotation to deliver a hammer action that allows you to easily and quickly drill through tough materials such as brickwork and concrete. Hammer drills with more than one gear allow you to select the ideal speed for drilling different materials, a slow speed uses the drill's power to produce more turning force for drilling into masonry or metal, a higher speed produces a clean cut when drilling through wood. If you require one cordless power drill that can complete any task from flat pack furniture to drilling through brickwork, a cordless hammer drill would be the best all round solution.

Lithium ion explained

Once charged, Lithium ion batteries only lose around 1% of their power each month, far less than standard batteries, so they are always ready for the job in hand. The battery cells weigh 30-40% less and are smaller in size enabling the tools to be light and compact for a fatigue-free comfort hold. Useful features of these tools include an integrated spotlight to help you work in poorly lit areas, a warning display for low battery charge and indicator lights telling you whether the tool is in forward or reverse. With a screwdriver, a 1-gear or 2-gear drill/driver to choose from, there's a tool available for all your drilling tasks.

VOLTS 00 — Higher voltage means more power. Choose a higher voltage drill if you are going to be completing tough drilling tasks.

SPEED 00 — RPM means revolution per minute. A higher speed means that you can get jobs done faster saving time and effort.

TORQUE 00 — This allows you to vary the output power for precise control when tightening screws which avoids damage to drilling materials. It is wise to start with a low torque setting to test the material you are using.

CHARGING 00 — Time taken to fully charge 1 battery (measured in hours).

Corded drills from only £9.97

Argos Quick guide to corded drills

Corded drills are mains powered, which allows continuous use and makes them more powerful than cordless drills. Ideally used for drilling into metal, concrete, brickwork and thick wood. Corded drills with more than one speed: 2 or 3 geared drills, allow you to select the ideal speed for drilling different materials. A lower speed produces more turning force ideal for tougher materials.

WATTS 00 — Measures the power of the tool in watts.

SPEED 00 — RPM means revolution per minute. Higher speed means that you can get jobs done faster saving time and effort.

No. OF GEARS 00 — 2 or 3 geared drills allow you to select the ideal speed for drilling different materials. A lower speed produces more turning force, ideal for tougher materials.

CAPACITIES 00 — Maximum cutting depth in each material, measured in millimetres.

Argos Quick guide
to SDS hammer drills

SDS drills are used for the toughest jobs such as drilling or chiselling through thick concrete, paving slabs and foundations. SDS stands for special drive system. These drills have a more powerful hammer action than conventional hammer drills and a heavy duty chuck that uses a different type of drill bit. These chucks have a greater holding power, essential when tackling heavy duty jobs. All SDS drills have three functions: normal rotation (acts as a normal drill), hammer action (powerful hammer action for drilling through concrete) and chisel action (no rotation) for breaking up concrete.

Argos Quick guide
to angle grinders

A powerful tool designed for cutting and grinding metal, stone slabs, brickwork and concrete. The angle ensures a professional finish, saving time, effort and money but choosing the right angle grinder depends on the job. For metal work or preparing surfaces, choose a grinder with a small disc (115mm). For cutting masonry or paving slabs a higher wattage grinder with a larger disc (230mm) is what you need. All our angle grinders come with an adjustable safety guard and an adjustable handle for left or right-handed users.

WATTS 00 — Measures the power of the tool in watts.

SPEED 00rpm — RPM means revolution per minute. A higher speed means you get jobs done faster saving time and effort.

Argos Quick guide to jigsaws

Jigsaws will cut through metal, timber, plastics, laminates and ceramic tiles. Ideal for cutting curves and tight angles, this makes them a very useful tool when laying a wood laminate floor. For a faster cutting action choose a pendulum jigsaw that moves the cutting blade backwards and forwards maximising the cutting power. Also look for features such as cutting depth, lasers which ensure a perfect straight line and variable speed for greater control and accuracy. All our jigsaws come with a safety guard.

Argos Quick guide to wood working tools

Detail sanders

These are specifically designed to sand very small areas. Their triangular base shape is ideal for working in really tight corners for example skirting boards or corners of wooden door frames. These sanders are extremely useful when decorating as you can very easily sand a small area of filler. They also have the benefit of being much lighter than sheet or multi sanders.

Sheet sanders

Sheet sanders have a bigger sanding area than detail sanders and are therefore more suitable for sanding larger areas such as tables, doors etc. The square sheet is unsuitable for sanding in very tight corners so you may need a detail sander to achieve a good finish. When purchasing a sheet sander you need to consider the different sizes of sheet. You will need a larger sheet size for tackling big sanding jobs.

Argos Quick guide to wood working tools

Multi sanders

Multi sanders have a triangular sheet design similar to detail sanders, these sanders have a bigger sheet size (although not as big as a sheet sander) and increased power. These types of sanders are ideal for sanding staircases and window sills where the sanding area is quite large but has tight corners and would therefore make is difficult to achieve a good finish with a sheet sander or the job would take too long for a detail sander.

Belt sanders

A belt sander uses a continuous loop of sanding paper revolving at high speed, these sanders are specifically designed to sand very large areas such as wood floors. The rotating square sheets are unsuitable for sanding in corners so you may need a detail sander or multi sander to achieve a good finish.

Circular saws

Circular saws are designed to make straight cuts in timber, they achieve far superior results versus hand saws and are not only safer but complete the task in a fraction of the time. Look out for features such as mitre cutting which can give you up to a 45 degree cutting angle essential for joining wood at right angles, laser guided saws which give you a perfectly straight line everytime.

Argos Quick guide
to mitre saws, reciprocating saws and table saws

Mitre saws
Mitre saws will produce professional, accurate and quick cuts. When choosing a mitre saw pay particular attention to the cut depth to ensure it is big enough for your material. Cross pull mitre saws allow you to cut timber with a bigger depth.

Reciprocating saws
Reciprocating saws are very versatile tools that offer a replacement to hand saws. Depending on the blade they can be used to cut timber and soft metals.

Table saws
Table saws offer a very safe, fast and accurate way of cutting timber. They are especially useful for large thin pieces of wood.

Argos Quick Guide to tents

Dome tents
Dome tents provide excellent stability in windy conditions. Portable, packable and easy to use. Ideal for first time campers, festivals, youngsters and hiking.

Tunnel tents
Versatile design with porch areas that can be used as living space if the weather dictates inside is better than out.

Large family tents
Ideal family accommodation with generously proportioned living and sleeping areas.

Common Tent Features

Taped seams
These are the weak points of any tent. Our tents stitched seams are heat sealed to prevent water ingress.

Fibreglass poles
Our tent poles are made from fibreglass to provide superior strength along with reduced weight.

Colour-coded poles
All our tent poles and tent sleeves are colour coded to allow easy pitching.

Hydrostatic head
This is an indication of how waterproof a tent is, measured by the volume of water (in mm) a fabric can resist before water leaks through. A guide to protection levels is:

- 800mm - Medium protection for light showers
- 1200mm - High protection suitable for most conditions
- 2000mm - Premier protection for use in all conditions

Bike lights from only £6.97

Quick guide to Cycle lights

It is a legal requirement to use cycle lights when riding your bike at night. You must show a white light to the front and red light to the rear.

Krypton lights

Uses Krypton gas inside the bulb and can produce up to 50% extra light output than normal bulbs.

High power Xenon lights

Uses Xenon gas inside the bulb and can produce up to 125% extra light output than normal bulbs.

Halogen lights

Uses Halogen gas inside the bulb producing up to 150% extra light output than normal bulbs.

LEDs

Light emmiting diodes do not have filaments and never need to be replaced. LEDs use significantly less power than bulbs and consequently LED lights are smaller as they use smaller batteries.

Rechargeable power supply

Rechargeable batteries allow the user to continuously use the batteries. Batteries are charged from the mains supply.

Quick guide to golf package sets

DRIVER SIZE The larger the head, the more forgiving the club - which means you'll hit the ball straighter and further. 460cc is the largest legal size, favoured by golfers who love to hit the ball long distances. Most drivers are made from Titanium matrix which is lightweight and extremely durable.

WOODS These 'woods' are actually titanium or steel, and are the distance-hitters in the bag. A set of clubs will typically have a driver, a 3 wood and at least one fairway wood.

RESCUE WOODS These useful clubs can replace hard-to-hit long irons, and are designed to be easy to use when your ball is in long grass (the rough) or a shallow bunker. Great for getting out of trouble - hence the name.

4 IRONS These clubs are built for accuracy, and help you hit the ball onto the green. Typically a set will have between 7 and 10 irons of various lofts including 'wedges' for very short shots.

PUTTERS Available in various styles from traditional blade or mallet, to newer shapes with sighting devices and advanced face inserts for a softer feel.

BAG Stand bags are easy to carry and have extending legs for convenience, whereas trolley bags tend to be larger with extra storage and are for golfers who prefer to use a golf trolley. All golf bags have strong zip pockets and multiple dividers to protect your golf club.

Frequency of exercise You should try to exercise as often as possible but at least three times a week.

Duration of exercise Try to do at least 20 minutes or more. Of course, the longer you go, the more calories you'll "burn."

THE POWER BEHIND TREADMILLS

Why use a treadmill? Using a treadmill will give you a total body workout, you can improve the performance of your heart, lungs and burn fat. Treadmills are great for the whole family whatever your fitness level. Walking and running are the most natural types of exercise and with a treadmill you can do both in the comfort and safety of your own home.

Do I have to run? No, you can control the speed of the treadmill and walking is a very good form of exercise.

What's the point of the incline feature? Just like walking and running outdoors, going up hills varies the exercise intensity and the muscles that you use.

Do I need programmes? You can control the treadmill yourself, or put it into programme mode, this will take you along a route of various inclines and speeds. This can give you increased results and stop you getting bored.

What does the heart monitor do? It tells you how fast your heart is beating. Knowing the number of beats per minute can help you know if you are working too hard, or not effectively enough.

Home delivery only. Just £4.95, no matter how much you order. Order by phone, online or in store. Want to know more? See page 6.

Argos Quick Guide to cardiovascular

What is cardiovascular fitness? It's the most important component of physical fitness. It includes the efficient operation of both the heart and lungs 'the more active you are, the more invigorated you will feel' In addition to exercise increasing your energy level, exercising also decreases your chances of developing cardiovascular disease.

Frequency of exercise You should try to exercise as often as possible but at least three times a week.

Duration of exercise Try to do at least 20 minutes or more. Of course, the longer you go, the more calories you'll "burn."

Warming up and stretching Essential for preparing your body for exercise. Start at a low intensity to allow your muscles to warm up and your heart to gradually increase. After exercise, always make sure you stretch the muscles you have just been exercising.

Stay fit and healthy A healthy balanced diet is essential for good health and keeping fit. Fruit and vegetables are important components of a healthy diet, and their sufficient daily consumption could help prevent major diseases, such as cardiovascular diseases.

THE POWER BEHIND CROSS TRAINERS

Why use a elliptical? An elliptical cross trainer will give you the combined benefits of cardio and strength training. The low impact exercise burns calories and strengthens and tones the upper and lower body, whilst the elliptical movement assists your balance and co-ordination making it suitable for both new and experienced users.

Is an elliptical just like a low impact running machine? You use the same muscles, but it combines strength and cardio. So, because you use your arms you can strengthen and tone your upper body and torso.

Do I have to follow a programme? You can follow the programmes, or create your own by simply choosing the speed and resistance that you like.

Do I need good co-ordination? The elliptical machine guides you through a constant movement, most people pick-up the technique after a few minutes practice.

What's the point of going into reverse? The reverse action exercises different muscles, especially the buttocks and hamstrings.

These items come flat packed for you to assemble at home.

Argos Quick Guide to cardiovascular

What is cardiovascular fitness? It's the most important component of physical fitness. It includes the efficient operation of both the heart and lungs 'the more active you are, the more invigorated you will feel' In addition to exercise increasing your energy level, exercising also decreases your chances of developing cardiovascular disease.

Frequency of exercise You should try to exercise as often as possible but at least three times a week.

Duration of exercise Try to do at least 20 minutes or more. Of course, the longer you go, the more calories you'll "burn."

Warming up and stretching Essential for preparing your body for exercise. Start at a low intensity to allow your muscles to warm up and your heart to gradually increase. After exercise, always make sure you stretch the muscles you have just been exercising.

Stay fit and healthy A healthy balanced diet is essential for good health and keeping fit. Fruit and vegetables are important components of a healthy diet, and their sufficient daily consumption could help prevent major diseases, such as cardiovascular diseases.

THE POWER BEHIND ROWERS

Primary workout area

Secondary workout area

Light workout area

Why use a rower? Using a rower will give you all round results in cardio strength, fat burn and toning, whilst the seated position reduces the load put on your hip, knee and ankle joints. The entire family can enjoy the fitness benefits by simply adjusting the speed, resistance and length of their workout.

Proffesional rowers are very fit, is it too hard for beginners? You can start by using a light resistance for just a few minutes and increase it as you feel ready.

Will rowing give me all round fitness? Rowing is excellent for cardio and toning your muscles. For complete wellbeing include some stretching to help maintain your flexibility.

How can I adjust the exercise intensity? You have lots of options, you can alter the rower's magnetic or air resistance, change your rowing speed and the number of minutes you row for.

Will I get big muscles from rowing? No, building muscles requires serious weight training. Rowing firms your muscles and burns fat.

THE POWER BEHIND EXERCISE BIKES

Primary workout area

Secondary workout area

Light workout area

Why use a bike? To improve your cardio fitness and tone your lower body, an exercise bike is the simplest and most user friendly of exercise machines. The non-impact seated position minimises the load on your hip, knee and ankle joints.

Does a bike exercise your whole body? It works the muscles in your lower body and your heart and lungs. If you are trying to burn fat, it will go from all over your body.

How do the programmes work? Just like riding outside, the programmes automatically adjust the resistance to simulate riding up and down hills.

Do I have to spend hours on the bike? No, you can improve your fitness starting with just 10 minutes a day.

I lack motivation. What can I do when riding a bike? You can read, watch TV, or ride to the beat of motivational music.

These items come flat packed for you to assemble at home.

*Home delivery only. Just £4.95, no matter how much you order. Shop by phone, online or in store. See page 6 for details. Before you order, please make sure your doors are wide enough for this product, and you've enough space for it.

Blow them away

Ready to just dry and go? Then look for wattage – the higher the number, the faster you'll be done! Creating different styles means giving blow drying a bit more attention, so dryers with multi-heat settings will help you stay in control. If frizz is a problem then ionic or ceramic dryers are best.
